

The Lonely Road

Written by Adrian Paul

THE LONELY ROAD

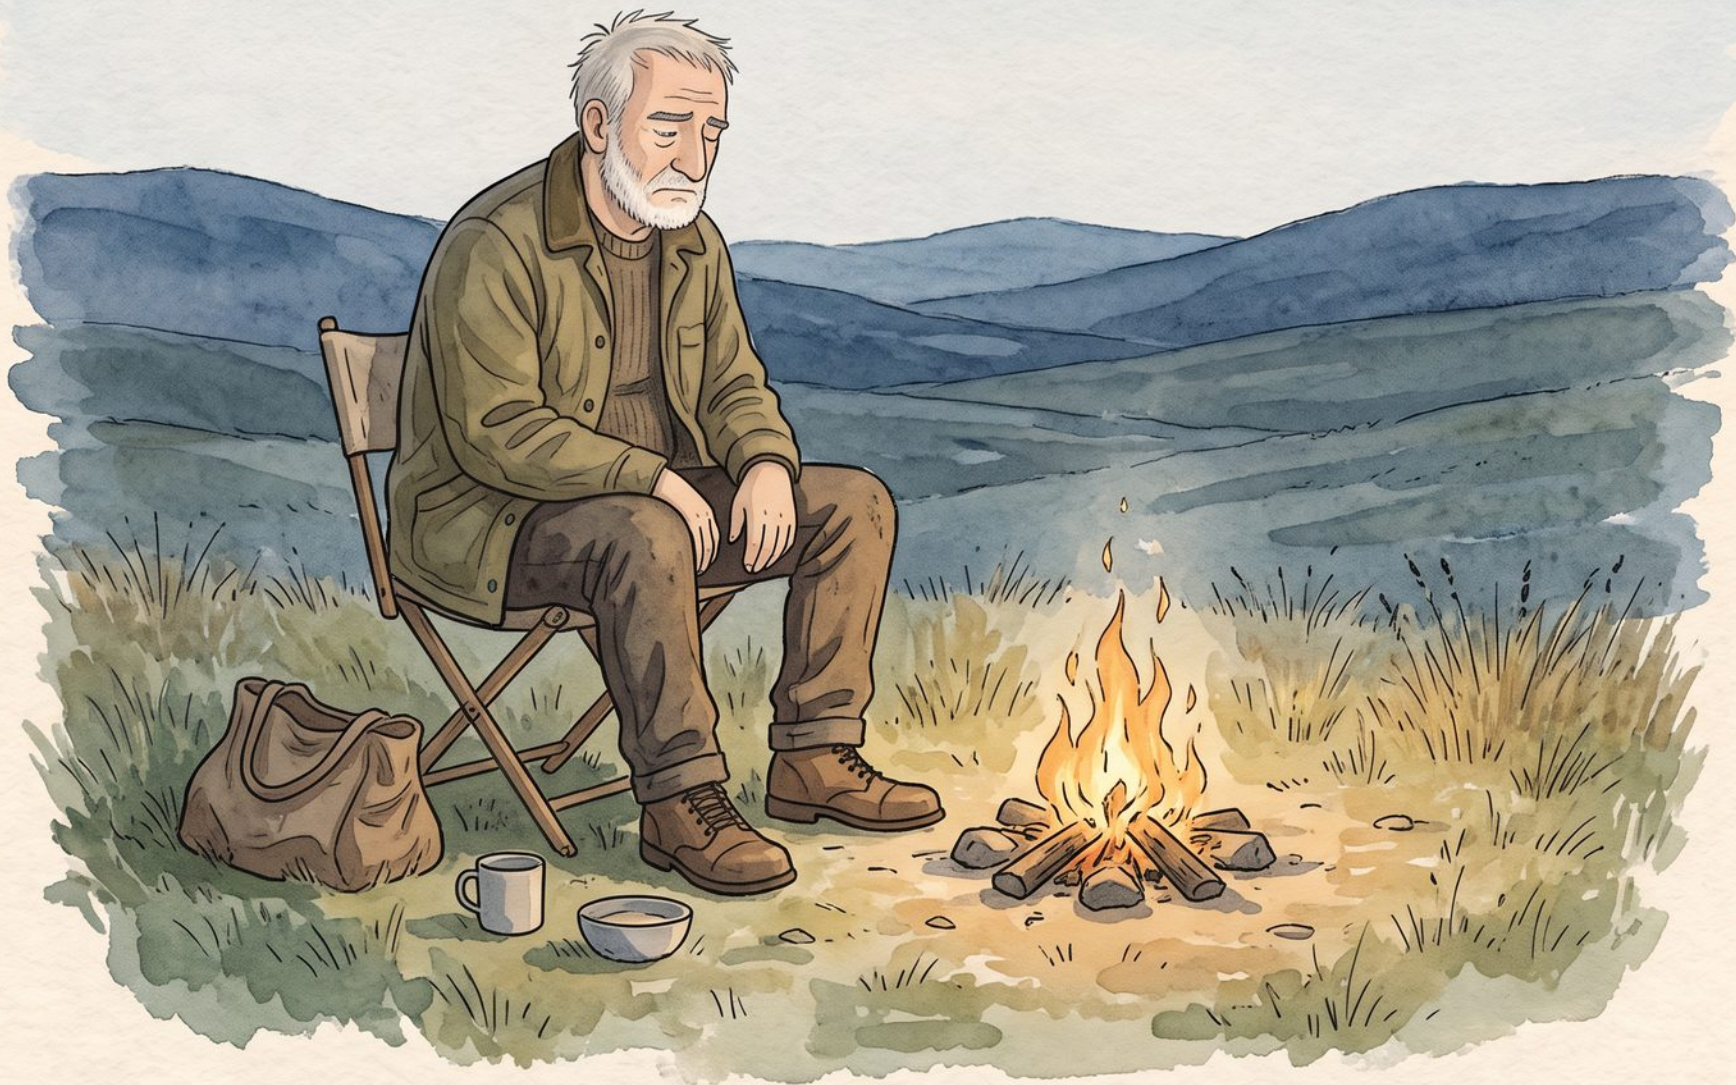

A story for quiet days

The road was long. The sky was grey.
He packed one bag and walked away.
He hoped a friend would walk along,
And sing with him a quiet song.
But no one came. He carried on.

The first night fell. The hills turned blue.
He lit a fire. He felt it too,
The ache of empty, silent air.
One cup. One bowl. One folding chair.
He wished that someone else was there.

That is the end of the sample.

The full book has 26 pages.

The Dyslexic Corner

A safe place to read